

SENATE IS WORKING
A $40,000,000 STEALHOUSE RECEDES FROM ITS POSITION TODAY.

Withdrawal Is Made With Free Iron, Coal and Barb Wire as Conditions—W. L. Wilson Makes Sensational Charges on the Authority of Prominent Senators.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Mr. Crisp offered a resolution to-day that the house recede and accept the senate tariff bill. The resolution also included a provision placing barbed wire, sugar, coal and iron ore on the free list by a series of separate bills. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 102 to 21. Previous to the introduction of this resolution Mr. Wilson had the floor, and was laboring under deep emotion. He made the startling statement on the authority of leading senators that the trust had brought twelve million dollars worth of sugar in the foreign markets in anticipation of the approval of the president. As result of this deal a profit of forty millions was assured. Mr. Wilson's declaration that the sugar trust has people by the throat and that it is now a battle between the people and the trust received hearty applause. Yesterday was anything but a day of rest for the tariff leaders. They were on the go from early morning till late night. Secretary Carlisle was with President Cleveland throughout the afternoon. The senate and house conferees made no effort to get together, and they remain as wide apart as when their meeting broke up Friday night. The house conferees were in consultation informally most of the day, although at no time were they all together at once. Chairman Wilson spent the day with Representative Breckinridge of Arkansas at the Normandie hotel and was there called upon by other conferees. Mr. Wilson did not see the President through the day. The meetings of the house men brought about a thorough understanding among them as to line of action at the caucus to-day and in the subsequent proceedings of the senate and house. They reviewed the situation from every possible standpoint and prepared themselves for all emergencies. At the outset the house conferees satisfied themselves of the parliamentary situation of the bill. They had done this with the greatest care toward securing an accurate and authoritative decision. Speaker Crisp had been asked to examine with care the precedents bearing on the case, and it was understood that he had in turn consulted Secretary Carlisle, who, as ex-speaker of the house, is regarded as one of the best authorities on parliamentary procedure.

From the examination which had been made the conferees were fully satisfied that the house of representatives had the right to pass the senate bill now or at any time. This determination went much further than has heretofore been understood. It was that the house, having the actual physical possession of the tariff bill, could pass it with the senate amendments before the Hill resolution passed or after the Hill resolution was defeated. That is, so confident were the house conferees of their right to pass the bill at any time they regarded their rights as entirely unaffected by anything the senate could do with the Hill resolution or with any other resolution. This conclusion was of the utmost importance in bearing on the action of the caucus to-day. It assured them, in the first place, there was no need of precipitate action toward accepting the senate bill before Mr. Hill's resolution had passed. This resolution could be taken up in the senate at 11 o'clock, and it had been feared at first that the house caucus, which begins at 1 o'clock, would be compelled to take hasty action in accepting the senate bill in order to prevent the house from losing its opportunity to pass the senate bill by the adoption of the Hill resolution. It was agreed, however, that no such haste was necessary. On the contrary it was felt the house, in having possession of the bill and a parliamentary right to pass it at any time, had everything to gain and nothing to lose by deliberate action. Entertaining these views the house conferees did not believe it was necessary or prudent for the house caucus then and there to pass a resolution at once to accept the senate bill. They realize the situation is so critical the question of accepting the senate bill might come before the caucus and develop such overwhelming and resistless strength that it would be useless to oppose it. They were prepared for this emergency and were ready to accept it if it came. The house conferees felt that it would perhaps be best for the caucus to adjourn and wait to see what the senate did.

HOPING FOR ADJOURNMENT.

With Tariff Fight Settled Congress Could at Once Go Home.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The hope is general about the senate that the present will be the last week of the session. This is based upon the belief that the tariff bill will be disposed of in some way early in the week, and with the tariff out of the way final adjournment can be brought about at almost any time. None of the appropriation bills, with the exception of the sundry civil and the general deficiency, are yet to be acted upon to any extent by either house, and these two are in such an advanced stage in conference that a day of zealous work would probably suffice to put them both in shape to be sent to the President. The Chinese treaty is the only other business that would hold congress for a day, and this is also in condition to be taken up and voted upon at to-day's session. Almost everything will depend upon the action of the house on the tariff bill, but whatever the action may be it can be counted upon as quite certain the two remaining appropriation bills will receive final attention during the week. The conference report on the sundry civil bill has already been largely disposed of, and it is not probable that much more time will be spent upon it. The conference committee on the general deficiency bill was in session all day, notwithstanding it was Sunday, and the bill will be in shape for early presentation to both houses. If, therefore, the house should decide to accept the senate amendments to the tariff bill the senate could be prepared to suspend proceedings on almost any day after Tuesday. If the house should decide upon the opposite course there is no saying what might happen in the senate. The tariff is engrossing the attention of the house, and it has so far no program whatever for the week.

Government Printing Office Unsafe.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Agitation of the question whether it will be better to build a new government printing office or procure land adjacent to the present structure upon which to erect an extension has formed an engrossing topic of conversation about the capitol during the last week. It is said the present building is in an unsafe condition and at any moment an accident may occur which would exceed in its horrible results that which took place only a few months ago at Ford's theater, where more than a score of human lives were sacrificed.

America May Be Arbitrator.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—All the public and confidential news received by the state and navy departments is ominously against an early peace between China and Japan unless the five great powers substantially compel it by means of an acceptance of an offer of intervention which the European powers hope the United States will make.

WRECK ON SANTA FE
FATAL TO A CREWTWO MEN WERE KILLED AND TEN HURT.

Disregard of Orders Resulted in the Wrecking of Fast Trains Near Gibbs, Mo.—Two of the Wounded May Die—Engineer Atoned For His Error.

FORT MADISON, Iowa, Aug. 12.—Express and mail trains Nos. 4 and 5 on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road collided at 3 o'clock yesterday morning near Gibbs, Mo. Two were killed and several hurt. Both trains were running at high speed. The baggage, mail, and express cars were demolished.

The killed: COPELINGER, GEORGE, of Chicago; express messenger of No. 5, was buried in the wreck.

HUMPHREYS, E. R., of Kansas City; engineer of express train No. 4.

The injured:

DALY, DANIEL, of Fort Madison, engineer of No. 5; shoulder badly hurt.

DERRICK, E. E., of Chicago, baggage man of No. 5; cut and bruised; may die.

DUTCHER, R. E., of Chicago, mail clerk.

DURBIN, WALTER N., of Milwaukee, 23 years old; ankle cut.

ELLIOTT, C. N., of Chicago, mail clerk.

FOGARTY, MARTIN, of Fort Madison, fireman on No. 5; badly bruised.

HOLMES, of Fort Madison, brakeman on No. 5; hand smashed.

MCCARTHY, JUSTIN, of Chicago.

MILBOUGH, DAN, of Chicago, baggage man of No. 4; badly bruised and hurt internally; may die.

SKYLES, F. P., of Kansas City, fireman on No. 4; slightly hurt.

The trains met on a slight curve and came together with terrific force. Both engines applied the air brakes and reversed their engines, which action was the cause of saving many lives.

As soon as the passengers and those of the train crew not hurt recovered from the shock they proceeded to rescue the unfortunate ones. Engineer Humphreys of No. 4 was found at his post with one of his limbs cut off at the thigh and his head almost split in two. He died in a few minutes. Express Messenger Copelinger was instantly killed. E. E. Derrick, the express messenger and baggage man of No. 5, had a narrow escape, and his injuries may yet prove fatal. There was only one physician on the train. He was kept busy until train No. 5 was run back to Hurland for assistance.

None of the passengers on No. 4 were injured. Engineer Daly and Fireman Fogarty and Skyles saved their lives by jumping.

General Manager Frey was on the east-bound train and gave directions and superintended the work of relief. The passengers in the smoker and chair-cars of No. 5 were badly shaken up.

Conductor Clegern was in charge of No. 5, west bound. He handed his order to a reporter, which clearly showed that the two trains were to meet at Gibbs. The officials of the Santa Fe here say the conductor and engineer of No. 4 were responsible for the accident, having disobeyed telegraphic orders to meet train No. 5 at Gibbs station. The conductor of No. 4 says he entirely overlooked the orders. The damage to property will not exceed $14,000.

JAPAN'S LAST MOVE
ONLY A RUSEATTACK ON THE FORTS NOT SERIOUS.

The Object Only to Obtain the Strength and Position of Chinese Forces—Plague May Ruin Hong Kong as a Port—Other Interesting News From the East.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13.—The Japanese squadron that attacked Wei-Hai-Wei Friday consisted of twenty-six vessels. It is not definitely known how many of the fleet were men-of-war. The warships drew up in line of battle off the port and opened fire early Friday morning. There were no Chinese warships in the vicinity and the engagement was entirely between the Japanese men-of-war and the forts. The whereabouts of the Chinese fleet were unknown. The forts, however, were able without much difficulty to repulse the attack. About fifty shots were exchanged, but no material damage was done on either side. The operations are regarded as having been not attempts to capture either Wei-Hai-Wei or Port Arthur, but simply ruses on the part of the Japanese commander to ascertain the exact position and strength of the Chinese guns at the two places.

Vote to Continue Pullman Strike.

PULLMAN, Ill., Aug. 13.—The strikers held a large meeting yesterday at the Kensington Turner hall. A number of women were present. The hall was crowded. The meeting decided to continue the struggle. They admit that the strike is lost as far as any benefit to the former workmen is concerned, but they say the main body of the striking mechanics is as firm as ever in the determination to remain out and that the company will lose thousands of dollars while breaking in new men.

ATHLETICS CAN WIN IN HOT GAMES

JEFFERSON TALENT UNITED COULDN'T BEAT.

First the Advantage Was One Way, Then the Other, But the Bower City Boys Pulled the Fat Out of the Fire at the Last Moment and Saved the Game.

The man that did not get his money's worth of base ball yesterday afternoon at Athletic park probably never will. It was very much like Boston-Baltimore games, first one side was ahead and then the other. The visitors had a very strong team, three from Jefferson and one from Watertown. The home team had three new players in Lutz, Larson and Cooley and they all showed up strong both in the field and at the bat. It was a fine day and a sharp game such as one as the cranks like to see. Wilbur, Lutz, Larson and Morrissey did some fearful slugging and Connors, Cooley and Birmingham won the fielding honors for the visitors. A. Roessler and Buchta led with stick. O. Roessler and Buchta fielded their positions in fine style. Janesville started the run getting with three runs in the second inning. Morrissey was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Lutz's hit. Larson got a base on balls. Schicker poked out a single scoring Lutz and Larson. The visitors tallied twice on Morrissey and Schicker's errors, Buchta's base on balls and Miller's single. The home team drew a blank in the third while the visitors tied the score. Sullivan reached third when Connors threw over Morrissey's head and scored on O. Roessler's single. A combination of two-baggers by Lutz, Larson and G. Wilbur landed two in the fourth. In the fifth the boys from the Fort had lots of fun. A. Roessler got four wide ones; Connors fell down on a chance for a double play; Cooley misjudged O. Roessler's fly; then the next four batters lined out timely singles and May a two-bagger, scoring six runs. The home team got ahead again in the sixth with five runs when ten went to bat before the side was tired. In the seventh G. Wilbur hit to Buchta who threw wild to first; the ball bounded over the fence, the runner making the circuit, but the visitors went then three better in their half on single by Stienberg, Buchta and Miller, Lutz's fumble of May's grounder and A. Roessler's two juggler. The home team put a clincher on the game in the eighth. Larson led off with a single to right; Cooley made himself popular with the fans by bounding one over to left field fence for a two baser. Larson scored on Schicker's fly out to left but came near being caught at the plate. George Wilbur's single with bases on balls to Birmingham and Dixon and May's fumble of Connors' grounder counted six runs. It looked as if the visitors were going to tie the score in their half of the ninth. Limphike led off with a single, went to second on a passed ball and scored on May's hit. Sullivan reached first on Birmingham's wide throw to first. Then Roessler hit a fly to Wilbur, Sullivan thought there were two out and Miller threw to first making a double play. Score:

YES, JANESVILLE HAS CHANGED.

Editor Watrous Suggests That Time Has Worked Quite a Transformation.

"Anything in the way of a piece of local news, from a double murder to a cat fight, does not fail to attract the attention of the Janesville Gazette," says the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph. "The Gazette has built up a large business by making itself one of the most thorough local papers Rock county ever had, and she's had many good ones, including the Republican, away back in 1860, when its editor was little Ed. Brooks later of the State Journal, then commissary sergeant of the Sixth Wisconsin, then acting adjutant, then a most unfortunate leader of a raiding party down into North Carolina from Petersburg, where himself and troops were made prisoners, and from whence only himself and a dozen brave men who started, returned. The balance died of starvation in prison pens, some of whose keepers are today leading democratic congressmen. Little Brooks went into the newspaper business after the war and cut a figure for years as editor of the Washington Republican, and then took charge of a paper at Peoria. Brooks died a few years ago. Let me see: I was talking about the Janesville Republican as it appeared in 1860, a life time ago. Compare the Janesville of then with the city of today, Mr. Up-and-onto-the Gazette, and see how great a change a life time has made in your handsome town."

ANOTHER BICYCLE CLUB FORMED

Branch of the L. A. W. Will Be Organized by Wheelmen.

Steps looking for the formation of a branch of the League of American Wheelmen were taken Saturday night when a meeting was held at the home of Consul J. C. Schuler at his home on Clark street.

J. C. Schuler was elected chairman, Frank E. Pellant secretary and a committee consisting of F. E. Pellant, W. M. Buob, C. Ellis, William Pfennig and J. C. Schuler was appointed to procure a place for the next meeting when permanent organization will be perfected. The meeting will be held at the Grand hotel tomorrow evening at 7:30.

With an L. A. W. club organized an effort will be made to get the next state meet for Janesville. The advantages which the L. A. W. offer are as follows:

It gives legal protections. Defends and protects the rights of wheelmen on the public highways. Gives legal redress when wronged as a wheelman, bearing the expense of any and all such cases.

By its large membership it commands the respect of and the influence with authorities.

It provides a system for recovering stolen wheels.

It obtains privileges with railroads and boats in the transportation of wheels.

It is the recognized power and mover in the crusade for better roads. It facilitates touring and secures fraternal companionship.

It provides for special privileges at all wheelmen's meets.

It provides for a league hotel in each town, which gives reduced rates to L. A. W. members showing their tickets.

It controls and regulates amateur racing.

It sends to each member a first-class weekly cycling publication, free.

It gives you an opportunity to subscribe to Good Roads magazine for 50 cents a year, which otherwise costs $2.00.

RUSSIAN THISTLE IS HERE.

Wisconsin Invaded by the Pest—Railroads Said to be to Blame.

The experiment station has just forwarded to each of the managers of the several railroad lines in the state 100 copies of the bulletin on noxious weeds by Professor Goff recently issued by the station. The managers will place these bulletins in the hands of the section bosses. The Russian thistle has gained an entrance in Wisconsin at several points, the seed having been brought here doubtless by the railroads, having been found on the cars. The railroad managers are showing commendable zeal in their effort to fight this pest, thus acting when its extermination is comparatively an easy matter.

ALBANY "RIOTERS" IN THE COURT

Carroll Load of Hahn's "Beer Army" Held for Examination.

W. J. Hahn and his force of Albany beer defenders were brought into Monroe for a hearing in a four horse carryall in charge of Sheriff Moore and Deputy Hoover. The party consisted of W. H. Hahn, William Arkinson, Mort. Tilley, James Lloyd, George Montgomery, Ed. Dorr, and Adrain Gosling. They were taken before Justice Abbott charged with resisting an officer and causing a riot. They took a change of venue to Justice Caradine and were required to give bonds of $300 each to appear at his court on September 3, at 10 o'clock a. m. The necessary bail was given in each case.

TRADE TO BE DRAWN FROM SMALL TOWNS

CHEAP EXCURSIONS TO RUN TWICE A WEEK.

Trains Will Carry Customers to Chicago From Every Point Within One Hundred Miles—Merchants in the Smaller Cities Much Dissatisfied Over the Prospect.

The railroad lines running out of Chicago have about arranged to put into effect cheap semi-weekly rates into Chicago from points within 100 miles of that city.

By such an arrangement the railroad officials believe that the present deplorable state of passenger traffic will be stimulated, and more important than this, that business in Chicago will be greatly benefited by the influx of country visitors that will be poured into Chicago by thirty-two railroads twice a week.

Isn't this going too far? It will take a great many dollars from country merchants which would otherwise be spent at home. There are always foolish people who will not be convinced that they can buy more advantageously of their home merchant than they can in Chicago, to say nothing of the money paid for railroad fare and spent foolishly in the city. Then, too, cheap fares encourage people to go to Chicago who really cannot afford to go anywhere. If the railroads carry out this plan of cheap excursions, business in the country towns will be badly hurt, especially in the lines of dry goods and clothing.

LOCAL ATHLETES AT THE GAMES

John Day's Exceptionally Good Work Win Him Much Praise.

"The Scottish games were remarkably successful in one particular," said Secretary C. C. McLean of the Caledonian society today. "The local competition in the event was stronger than ever before. All the Janesville boys did well, John Day in particular. He was in all the events and I'll venture to say that he is the best all-around athlete of his age in this section. Johnson, the piper, who is an athlete himself commended Day very highly."

Many people spoke of the agility and muscle that young Day displayed and they agree that he made a good showing. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Day.

GRUDGE CAUSED HIS LAMENESS.

Railroad Man Whipped Canary to Settle An Old Score.

William Canary is confined to his home by the injuries inflicted upon him by a railroad man in settlement of an old score. The railroad man used to live here some time ago and came back on a visit. The old skeleton in the closet became uncovered in some way and Mr. Railroad Man proceeded to break off a hitching post with Mr. Canary. Later in the evening the railroad man "licked" another fellow he thought needed it and then folded his tent like the Arab and as silently stole away taking the precaution to take his name with him so that the newspapers couldn't get it.

Y. M. C. A. SOCIAL A GREAT SUCCESS

Big Crowd Patronized the Young Men's Entertainment Saturday Evening

An immense crowd attended the Y. M. C. A. social at the homes of Hon. Alex. Graham, C. C. Bennett, Dr. O. G. Bennett and J. H. Huntress on Milton avenue, Saturday night. Chinese lanterns and railway headlights were used to illuminate the grounds, and ice cream, cake, and lemonade were served to a large number. The Y. M. C. A. quartette and orchestra were present and their music added much to the evening's enjoyment. The affair was a profitable one for the organization as well as for all who attended.

WHAT WILL BE DONE TO GAS LAMPS

Business Man Thinks They Should Be Taken Care Of.

There is a good deal of discussion about town as to what the city will do with the gas lamps now that the business has been removed and the pipes capped. While many people perhaps do not know it, the city owns all the gas lamps.

"Most of them are in good condition," said a business man this morning, "and I do not like to see them left so that small boys can break the glass and let the elements do the rest."

Kissing vs. Whiskers.

"I say, my little girl," said a fond Austin parent to his daughter, aged five, "you must be more sparing with your kisses. If you kiss the handsome Lieutenant very often, you will have whiskers on your face."

"Oh, I ain't afraid," returned the little one.

"Ain't afraid? Why, don't you believe what papa tells you?"

"Sometimes I do; but then, I don't see any whiskers on mamma's face, do you?"—Tammany Times.

FIGHT ON PAVING TO COME TONIGHT

RIVAL FACTIONS ARE "BUCK- ING" ON EAST MILWAUKEE.

One Petition Favors the Work and the Other Condemns It—Both Expected to Come Before the Council Tonight—North Main Street People Agree Better.

A "paving fight" will probably develop in tonight's council meeting. The North Main street petition has met little opposition and will come up for consideration, but the project does not meet with so much favor with East Milwaukee.

street property owners. There is not a street in Janesville that needs paving more, but while a majority, and one or two to spare have signed the petition, the property owners who object have not been idle, and have formulated a minority petition that will also be presented. Just what the outcome will be is in doubt, but both sides are said to be getting more or less vexed at the stubbornness of the other. The North Main street work, it is thought, will go through at once.

STORMS AND DROUGHTS.

January 13, 1810, quicksilver froze hard at Moscow.

In 1775 hailstones said to weigh twenty ounces fell at Murcia, in Spain.

In 1035 there was a frost in England July 1 that destroyed nearly all the vegetation.

In the year 310 hardly a drop of rain fell in England, and 40,000 people died of famine.

The seven years of drought and famine in Egypt recorded in Genesis began in the year B. C., 1708.

In 764 the cold at Constantinople was so severe that the Black sea was frozen for fifty miles from shore.

At Bombay twenty-four inches of rain have fallen in a day; at Genoa, thirty; at Gibraltar, thirty-three.

In 1656 a hail storm at Norwich, England, wrecked houses and killed many animals that could not reach shelter.

In 1444 the winter was so severe in Europe that in Flanders wine was frozen and was cut in blocks and sold by weight.

The heaviest rain ever recorded in Great Britain was in Argyll, December 7, 1863—seven inches in twenty-four hours.

The wettest place in the world is Cherrapunji, in Assam, where the average rainfall for fifteen years has been 493 inches. In 1891 it was 905.

Tea-Tasting a fatal Profession.

It is not generally known that tea-tasting is a regular commercial profession, and one which is certain death to those who pursue it. The success of the tea-taster depends upon the trained accuracy of his nose and palate, his experience in the wants of the market and keen business tact. If he has these qualities in high cultivation he may command a good salary as long as he lives—and die of ulceration of the lungs. In overhauling a cargo of tea he classifies it and determines the value of each sort. In doing this he first looks at the color of the leaf and the general cleanliness of it. He next takes a quantity of the herb in his hand, and, breathing his warm breath upon it, sniffs up the fragrance. In doing this he draws into his lungs a quantity of irritating dust, which is by no means wholesome. Then, sitting down to a table in his office, on which is a long row of little porcelain cups and a pot of hot water, he "draws" the tea and tastes it. In this way he classifies the different sorts to the minutest shade, makes the different prices and then compares his work with the invoice. The skill of some of these men is marvelous, but the effect on their health is ruinous. They grow lean, nervous and consumptive.

Old Wounds That Give Trouble.
Two extraordinary cases of bullet wounds becoming active after a lapse of twenty-four years are reported by a German medical paper. One is that of a watchmaker named Kleeman, living at Dusseldorf, who was wounded in the Franco-German war. Three years ago he had a bullet successfully extracted from his right shoulder, and a week ago, after a month's illness, a second bullet was extracted from his left side. The second case is that of a station master who a few days ago was operated upon at Bonn and had a French bullet, which pierced his right shoulder in the war, cut from his right side.

HARPER'S HISTORY OF THE WAR

Harper's Pictorial History is universally recognized as the best history of the war yet published. This superb work has never been sold for less than $16 to $30. It has been sold only by subscription and but a very few men have been able to buy it.

The pages are the same size as Harper's Weekly and the work contains all the illustrations appearing in that great paper during the war. The work was edited by Richard Grant White and Henry M. Alden and is authentic, complete and reliable.

We have made arrangements whereby we can furnish Gazette subscribers with this splendid history of twenty-six parts at ten cents a part. These twenty-six parts will contain over one thousand war pictures and will make two handsome volumes when bound.

Many official documents of priceless historic value are quoted in full in the copious foot notes, such for instance as Lincoln's inauguration speeches, articles of federation of the early states, constitution of the United States, ordinance of secession, and many important papers, speeches, etc. The war story is consecutive and very fascinating. The introductory chapters, leading up to the struggle, and the chapter on the reconstruction period, are by some of the first writers of the age.

On what a surprise!

What an agreeable one, too, is experienced by the hitherto misguided individual who has been ceaselessly but vainly dosing for years past in the futile hope of curing constipation, when drastic pills and potions are abandoned for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a faithful auxiliary of nature, which does its work without gripping or weakening, but always effectually. "Throw physic to the dogs!" and use this benign and thorough laxative, which achieves results which astonish as well as those who use it. Not only a regular habit of body, but complete digestion and assimilation are restored by its use. It regulates the liver and kidneys and counteracts a tendency to rheumatism. In a case where it is possible to recover, it should its use be delayed. Fortify with it against malaria.

SCENES AT WATERLOO.

Incidents of the Famous Battle Showing Bravery and Charity.

At the battle of Waterloo a Scotch color sergeant, who had been mortally wounded, fell into a ditch, and one of his comrades, missing the flag, went straight to the ditch where he had seen the Highlander fall. Meantime the enemy were charging vigorously. His comrade tried to disengage the flag from the hands of the wounded Highlander, but as he could not succeed he hoisted the wounded man on his shoulder, thus carrying both sergeant and flag. The enemy, who were charging, seeing this good deed, stopped suddenly, crying "Bravo! bravo, l'Ecosais!" They did not charge again till the brave man had rejoined his company.

During the retreat which followed this battle two companies of field artillery stopped under orders near Loissons, at a village a little distance from the main road. The mayor was sent for to make the customary distribution of food, etc., which was requisitioned, that it might be done without confusion. It seemed only a moment before all the bread was collected, each inhabitant willingly giving his own part, and the mayor ordered that lots should be drawn who should give a cow to furnish meat for the soldiers. The lot fell on a poor, old, infirm woman, who with some difficulty dragged herself forward, leaning on her stick, to speak to the mayor.

"This cow," she said, "which you wish to take from me is all I have; she is both my means of living and my companion, and if you kill her there is nothing left for me but to die, too." The mayor was inflexible, and the ax was raised to kill the cow when the artillery men cried with one voice, "What does it signify? We will fancy this is Friday and fast most willingly." They returned the cow to the old woman, and she led it away with tears of joy and gratitude.

A MILLIONAIRE'S CHECK.

Written on a Piece of Board About Eighteen Inches Square.

They were talking about queer checks, drafts, etc., in the bank, and a gentleman from Kansas City, Mo., finally told the following:

"I was once employed," he said, "to collect a balance of $470 which was due a well-known building firm of Kansas City from an eccentric old millionaire. How he made his money I don't know, for it is said he could neither read nor write, but he had it all the same.

"Well, I found the old boy down in his cellar, and was gratified to hear him say that he could pay the bill at once. 'I haven't that much cash with me,' he said, 'but just wait a minute.'"

"He felt around as if looking for a piece of paper, and I was just about to offer him some, when his eyes lit on a piece of board about eighteen inches square.

"Just the thing," he said, and with that he picked it up and made a lot of queer-looking marks on it.

"There," he said, 'take that to my bankers and it'll be all right.'"

"I protested, but he insisted, and finally I did as he said. I handed the piece of plank, dubiously enough I tell you, to the paying teller, but what was my relief when he merely smiled, studied the hieroglyphics a moment, and handed me $470. Then he laid the board up on a shelf, and that was all there was to it.

"It transpired that the old man had a system of signs all his own, which his bankers had agreed to respect. All the same the plank check seemed curious even to them, and it is hanging up in the office of their establishment now."

The Englishman in America.

An Englishman, just over, was breakfasting in New York with an American friend when he stated that he would run out and see his brother Harry who lived in San Francisco.

"Will you be back for dinner?" asked the American quizzically. "Of course," answered the Englishman, "if not for lunch." The American accompanied him to the station and the Englishman asked for a return ticket to San Francisco with a "stop over" at Chicago, and asked the ticket agent "How much?" "One hundred and thirty-eight dollars and a half" was the reply. "What?" gasped the Englishman. "How far is it?" "Three thousand miles," was the reply. The American friend stood behind the Englishman to catch him when he fell as he exclaimed, "Great God, what a country!"

The Lovely Agrippina.

The younger Agrippina, the daughter of the widow of Germanicus, was a widow of entirely different species from her mother. When a young girl she married a Russian gentleman, who soon after died under suspicious circumstances. She next captured a rich old patrician, who also died soon after the union. She then fascinated her uncle, the Emperor Claudius, and persuaded him to marry her. She is believed to have had a hand in his death, as also in that of several persons who opposed the accession of her son Nero to the imperial throne. After innumerable crimes she was finally put to death by command of her equally infamous son.

The Ink Plant.

In Colombia there grows a plant whose popular name is the ink plant. Its juice is a ready made ink. At first the writing looks reddish, but it becomes deep black in the course of a few hours. It will not harm steel pens; and letters written with it, if soaked in water, even for a long time, will be quite legible when dry. The plants are poisonous, however, so that this natural ink will never take the place of the common or finger staining sort in daily use.

Peace Arranged with Indians.

DRIVE NEARLY ENDS IN THE RACE WAY

MILTON JUNCTION VISITORS HAVE A CLOSE CALL.

Frightened Horses Carry Them Up the Post Office Alley at Dangerous Speed and Nearly Go Off Into the Water—Firemen Come to the Rescue.

Two couples from Milton Junction came very near ending their existence in the race last night. But for the fact that Dennis McGinley was taking a short cut home by going over the St. Paul railroad bridge below the dam, the two couples would have driven off the bank between the cotton factory and C. W. Hodson's mill, where the water is very deep.

The quartette drove down from Milton Junction last night, each couple having a single buggy. The horses became frightened at a street car, and to avoid an accident both rushed into the postoffice alley.

It was as dark as the hopes of democracy and when the horses plunged into the gloom the driver evidently did not realize where they were going. When they reached the crossing near the cotton mill power house they became confused and the leader tried to rein the thoroughly frightened animal onto the railroad bridge which crosses the race. The bridge is built on a long curve that starts between the cotton mill and the power house across the alley, but in the darkness the driver could not see that there was no bridge where he was trying to turn.

Several cars were standing on the side track and the visitors thought they were on the railroad and must get off the track before a train cut them up. Just as the horse was stepping from the bank McGinley heard them and called to them to stand still. They paid little attention to him and he saw that they would go ahead so he called:

"For God's sake stand still! You'll be drowned!" and turned and ran to their assistance. The firemen at the west side station heard him and also hurried to the spot. Both horses were acting badly, but the men led them through the alley to Fourth avenue in safety.

There was a lively runaway near St. Patrick's church yesterday. A hyrse became frightened and got away from its driver, running through the yards of John Hemmens, Mrs. Clark and Conductor Keyes. The buggy was wrecked when it came in contact with the corner of Mrs. Clark's house.

CRAZY GIANT LOCKED IN JAIL.
John Kay's Mania Made Him Plan to Kill Himself.

Herculean John Kay went crazy and loudly proclaimed that he would kill himself this morning; and George Crane, near whose suburban home Kay became so violent, drove to town and informed Chief Acheson who detailed Officer Kruse to go out and arrest the maniac. He is a Scotchman and has worked for various farmers of late. No cause for his lunacy can be assigned.

DEMENTED WOMAN WAS LOST ALL DAY

MRS. HANS GILBERTSON SADLY AFFLICTED.

Despondency Resulting From Illness Affects Her Mind, For the Time Being So that She Does Not Recognize Her Children—Friends Searched For Her Sunday.

With her mind so affected that she disclaimed acquaintance with her own children, Mrs. Hans Gilbertson wandered about from 5 o'clock yesterday morning until late yesterday afternoon, while an anxious husband and sympathetic neighbors searched for her everywhere fearing that despondency had unhinged her mind to a dangerous degree. Mrs. Gilbertson is the wife of Hans Gilbertson, a cabinet maker who resides on South River street. For some time she has been ailing and of late her illness has taken a despondent turn. Yesterday morning she arose at 5 o'clock and taking a tin pill in each hand stole softly out of the house without awakening either her husband or children. When they arose and found that she was gone they feared that she had ended her existence and began the search. They hunted without avail and about six o'clock one of the children, a bright little boy, was playing on the street near the house when he saw his mother coming toward him. With a glad cry that "mamma was coming" he rushed toward her but she did not notice him.

"Mamma don't you see me?" he asked.

"I don't know you little boy" she answered.

"I am your son."

"No you are not; I used to have two little boys but they are gone I don't know where" she replied. The lad led the way home and the husband and children were overjoyed to see that she was alive. The case is a sad one and the neighbors all speak sympathetically for the afflicted ones. The family came here from Rockford about two years ago.

Mr. DeForest has nine acres of clay west of the city, a sufficient quantity to last ten years with a daily output of forty thousand brick, and with nothing to purchase except fuel oil which is purchased at two cents a gallon, delivered, and is much cheaper than either wood or coal.

THE WORD "SUICIDE"

TALMAGE'S THEME

SUICIDE THE SUBJECT OF THIS WEEK'S SERMON.

In the Olden Time, Before the Dawn of Christianity, Self Murder Was Considered Honorable and a Sign of Courage—Moral Cowardice.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is now abroad, has selected as the subject for to-day's sermon through the press, the word "Suicide," the text being Acts xvi: 27, 28: "He drew out his sword and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm."

Here is a would-be suicide arrested in his deadly attempt. He was a sheriff and according to the Roman law a bailiff himself must suffer the punishment due an escaped prisoner; and if the prisoner breaking jail was sentenced to be hung for three or four years, then the sheriff must be hung for three or four years; and if the prisoner breaking jail was to have suffered capital punishment, then the sheriff must suffer capital punishment.

The sheriff had received especial charge to keep a sharp lookout for Paul and Silas. The government had not had confidence in bolts and bars to keep safe these two clergymen, about whom there seemed to be something strange and supernatural.

Sure enough, by miraculous power, they are free, and the sheriff, waking out of a sound sleep, and supposing these ministers have run away, and knowing that they were to die for preaching Christ, and realizing that he must therefore die, rather than go under the executioner's ax, on the morrow and suffer public disgrace, resolves to precipitate his own death. But before the sharp, keen, glittering dagger of the sheriff could strike his heart, one of the unloosed prisoners arrests the blade by the command, "Do thyself no harm."

In olden time, and where Christianity had not interfered with it, suicide was considered honorable and a sign of courage. Demosthenes poisoned himself when told that Alexander's ambassador had demanded the surrender of the Athenian orators. Isocrates killed himself rather than surrender to Phillip of Macedon. Cato, rather than submit to Julius Caesar, took his own life, and after three times his wounds had been dressed tore them open and perished. Mithridates killed himself rather than submit to Pompey, the conqueror. Hannibal destroyed his life by poison from his ring, considering life unbearable. After the disaster of Moscow, Napoleon always carried with him a preparation of opium, and one night his servant heard the emperor arise, put something in a glass and drink it, and soon after the groans aroused all the attendants, and it was only through utmost medical skill he was resuscitated from the stupor of the opiate.

Times have changed, and yet the American conscience needs to be toned up on the subject of suicide. Have you seen a paper in the last month that did not announce the passage out of life by one's own behest? Defaulters, alarmed at the idea of exposure, quit life precipitately. Men losing large fortunes go out of the world because they can not endure earthly existence. Frustrated affection, domestic infelicity, dyspeptic impatience, anger, remorse, envy, jealousy, destitution, misanthropy are considered sufficient causes for absconding from this life by Paris green, by laudanum, by belladonna, by Othello's dagger, by halter, by leap from the arbutus of a bridge, by firearms. More cases of "felo de se" in the last two years of the world's existence. The evil is more and more spreading.

A pulpit not long ago expressed some doubt as to whether there was anything wrong about quitting this life when it became disagreeable, and there are found in respectable circles people apologetic for the crime which Paul in the text arrested. I shall show you before I get through that suicide is the worst of all crimes and I shall lift a warning unmistakable. But in the early part of this sermon I wish to admit that some of the best Christians that have ever lived have committed self-destruction, but always in dementia and not responsible. I have no more doubt about their eternal felicity than I have of the Christian who dies in his bed in the delirium of typhoid fever. While the shock of the catastrophe is very great, I charge all those who have had Christian friends under cerebral aberration step off the boundaries of this life, to have no doubt about their happiness. The dear Lord took them right out of their dazed and frenzied state into perfect safety. How Christ feels toward the insane you may know from the kind way he treated the demoniac of Gadara and the child lunatic, and the potency with which he hushed the tempests either of sea or brain.

Scotland, the land prolific of intellectual giants, had none grander than Hugh Miller. Great for science and great for God. He came of the best Highland blood, and he was a descendant of Donald Roy, a man eminent for his piety and the rare gift of second-sight. His attainments, climbing up as he did from the quarry and the wall of the stonemasons, drew forth the astonished admiration of Buckland and Murchison, the scientists, and Dr. Chalmers, the theologian, and held universities spellbound while he told them the story of what he had seen of God in the old red sandstone.

That man did more than any being that ever lived to show that the God of the hills is the God of the Bible, and he struck his tuning fork on the rocks of Cromarty until he brought geology and theology accordant in divine worship. His two books, entitled "Footprints of the Creator" and the "Testimony of the Rocks," proclaimed the bans of an everlasting marriage between genuine science and revelation. On this latter book he toiled day and night through love of nature and love of God, until he could not sleep, and his brain gave way, and he was found dead with a revolver by his side, the cruel instrument having had two bullets—one for him and the other for the gunsmith who at the coroner's inquest was examining it and fell dead. Have you any doubt of the beatification of Hugh Miller, after his hot brain had ceased throbbing that winter night in his study at Portobello? Among the mightiest of earth, among the mightiest of heaven.

No one ever doubted the piety of William Cowper, the author of those three great hymns, "Oh, for a closer walk with God," "What various hindrances we meet," "There is a fountain filled with blood." William Cowper, who shares with Isaac Watts and Charles Wesley the chief honors of Christian hymnology. In hypochondria he resolved to take his own life and rode to the river Thames, but found a man seated on some goods at the very point from which he expected to spring, and rode back to his home, and that night threw himself upon his own knife, but the blade broke, and then he hanged himself to the ceiling, but the rope parted. No wonder that when God mercifully delivered him from that awful dementia he sat down and wrote that other hymn just as memorable:

God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footstep in the sea,
And rides upon the storm.
Blind unbelief is sure to err
And scan his work in vain;
God is his own interpreter,
And he will make it plain.

While we make this merciful and righteous allowance in regard to those who were plunged into mental incoherence, I declare that the man who in the use of his reason, by his own act, snaps the bond between his body and his soul, goes straight into perdition. Shall I prove it? Revelation 21: viii: "Murderers shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone." Revelation 22: xv: "Without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers." You do not believe the New Testament? Then, perhaps, you believe the Ten commandments: "Thou shalt not kill." Do you say all these passages refer to the taking of the life of others? Then I ask you if you are not as responsible for your own life as for the life of others? God gave you a special trust in your life. He made you the custodian of your life as he made you the custodian of no other life. He gave you as weapons with which to defend it two arms, to strike back assailants, two eyes to watch for invasion, and a natural love of life which ought ever to be on the alert. Assassination of others is a mild crime compared with the assassination of yourself, because in the latter case it is treachery to an especial trust, it is the surrender of a castle you were especially appointed to keep, it is treason to a natural law and it is treason to God added to ordinary murder.

Notwithstanding the Bible is against this evil, and the aversion which it creates by the loathsome and ghastly spectacle of those who have hurled themselves out of life, and notwithstanding Christianity is against it, and the arguments and the useful lives and the illustrious deaths of its disciples, it is a fact alarmingly patent that suicide is on the increase. What is the cause? I charge upon infidelity and agnosticism this whole thing. If there be no hereafter, or if that hereafter be blissful without reference to how we live and how we die, why not move back the folding doors between this world and the next? And when our existence here becomes troublesome, why not pass right over into Elysium? Put this down among your most solemn reflections and consider it after you go to your homes; there has never been a case of suicide where the operator was not either demented and therefore irresponsible, or an infidel. I challenge all the ages and I challenge the whole universe. There never has been a case of self-destruction while in full appreciation of his immortality and of the fact that that immortality would be glorious or wretched according as he accepted Jesus Christ or rejected him.

You say it is business trouble, or you say it is electrical currents, or it is this, or it is that, or it is the other thing. Why not go clear back, my friend, and acknowledge that in every case it is the abdication of reason or the teaching of infidelity which practically says, "If you don't like this life, get out of it, and you will land either in annihilation, where there are no notes to pay, no persecutions to suffer, no gout to torment, or you will land where there will be everything glorious and nothing to pay for it." Infidelity always has been apologetic for self-immolation. After Tom Paine's "Age of Reason" was published and widely read there was a marked increase of self-slaughter.

Would God that the coroners would be brave in rendering the right verdict, and when in the case of irresponsibility they say, "While this man was demented he took his life," in the other case say, "Having read infidel books and attended infidel lectures, which obliterated from this man's mind all appreciation of anything like future retribution, he committed self-slaughter!"

Ah! Infidelity, stand up and take thy sentence! In the presence of God and angels and men, stand up, thou monster, thy lip blasted with blasphemy, thy cheek scarred with lust, thy breath foul with the corruption of the ages! Stand up, Satyr, filthy goat, buzzard of the nations, leper of the centuries! Stand up, thou monster infidelity! Part man, part panther, part reptile, part dragon, stand up and take thy sentence! Thy hands red with the blood in which thou hast washed, thy feet crimson with the human gore through which thou hast waded, stand up and take thy sentence! Down with thee to the pit and sup on the sobs and groans of families thou hast blasted, and roll on the bed of knives which thou hast sharpened for others, and let thy music be the everlasting misere of those whom thou hast damned! I brand the forehead of infidelity with all the crimes of self-immolation for the last century on the part of those who had their reason.

My friends, if ever your life through its abrasions and its molestations should seem to be unbearable, and you are tempted to quit it by your own behest do not consider yourselves as worse than others. Christ himself was tempted to cast himself from the roof of the temple; but as he resisted, so resist ye. Christ came to medicine all our wounds. In your trouble prescribe life instead of death. People who have had it worse than you will ever have it have gone on long on their way. Remember that God keeps the chronology of your life with as much precision as he keeps the chronology of nations, your death as well as your birth, your grave as well as your cradle.

Why was it that at midnight, just at midnight, the destroying angel struck the blow that set the Israelites free from bondage? The four hundred and thirty years were up at 12 o'clock that night. The four hundred and thirty years were not up at 11, and 1 o'clock would have been tardy and too late. The four hundred and thirty years were up at 12 o'clock, and the destroying angel struck the blow and Israel was free. And God knows just the hour when it is time to lead you up from earthly bondage. By his grace make not the worst of things, but the best of them. If you must take the pills do not chew them. Your everlasting rewards will accord with your earthly perturbations, just as Caius gave to Agrippa a chain of gold as heavy as had been his chain of iron. For your asking you may have the same grace that was given to the Italian martyr, Algerius, who, down in the darkest of dungeons, dated his letter from "the delectable orchard of the Leonine prison."

And remember that this brief life of ours is surrounded by a rim, a very thin but very important rim, and close up to that rim is a great eternity, and you had better keep out of it until God breaks that rim and separates this from that. To get rid of the sorrows of earth, do not rush into greater sorrows. To get rid of a swarm of summer insects, leap not into a jungle of Bengal tigers.

There is a sorrowless world, and it is so radiant that the noonday sun is only the lowest doorstep and the aurora that lights up our northern heavens, confounding astronomers as to what it can be, is the waving of the banners of the procession come to take the conquerors home from church militant to church triumphant, and you and I have ten thousand reasons for wanting to go there, but we will never get there either by self-immolation or impenitency. All our sins slain by the Christ who came to do that thing, we want to go in at just the time divinely arranged, and then the clang of the sepulchral gates behind us will be overpowered by the clang of the opening of the solid pearl before us. O God, whatever others may choose, give me a Christian's life, a Christian's death, a Christian's burial, a Christian's immortality!

The Presbyterian church in Canada has a mission among the Chamars of Neemuch, Central India. They are a low caste people, living at the entrance to the town, their houses built round a courtyard, in which are wells and fine trees.

FOLLOWING FRIENDLY ADVICE.

Got a Snap on the Bicycle, But the Dealer Did Not Mourn.

"Wouldn't it be a good idea," said the disinterested friend, "to put a high grade bicycle in your window and mark it $50 or some such price?"

You'd lose some money on it, of course, but look at the advertising you would get out of it. Everybody in town would be talking about it inside of twenty-four hours, and your store would get a reputation for selling good machines cheap that would be worth hundreds of dollars to you."

"That's not a bad scheme," said the bicycle dealer, after thinking it over, "John," he called out to one of the boys, "put that Greased Racer in the front window and mark it $50!"

"But—"

"Never mind arguing the matter. I know what I'm doing."

The Greased Lightning Racer was placed conspicuously in the show window with the $50 tag appended.

"Now," said the disinterested friend, "that looks something like it. You'll see a crowd gathering there inside of five minutes. By the way, you may just consider that machine sold. I'll take it off your hands. But I'm no hog," he added, cheerfully. "I'll let it stay in your window till to-morrow morning."

"Wasn't that rather an unhand-some trick?" asked the silent partner, after the disinterested friend had gone away.

"No," reflected the dealer. "That machine has been on hand two years, but it's worth every cent of $17.50."

The Ink Plant.

In Colombia there grows a plant whose popular name is the ink plant. Its juice is a ready made ink. At first the writing looks reddish, but it becomes deep black in the course of a few hours. It will not harm steel pens; and letters written with it, if soaked in water, even for a long time, will be quite legible when dry. The plants are poisonous, however, so that this natural ink will never take the place of the common or finger staining sort in daily use.

A Good Reason.

"What time of night was it you saw the prisoner in your room?" asked the defendant's attorney in a recent suit.

"About three o'clock."

"Was there any light in the room at the time?"

"No, sir; it was quite dark."

"Could you see your husband at your side?"

"No, sir."

"Then, madam," said the attorney, triumphantly, "please explain how you could see the prisoner and could not see your husband?"

"My husband was at the lodge, sir."

"No, George, our engagement must be broken. Father has failed, you know."

"When did your father fail? I hadn't heard of it," said he turning pale.

"He failed yesterday, and is very much prostrated in consequence. My whole time must be given to him now. He needs my undivided care and attention, and though it may break your heart, George, we must part forever."

"Noble girl!" thought George, as he hastily grabbed his hat, and with his broken heart went out into the night. Alex Sweet, in Texas Siftings.

Clerk—Yes, yer honor.

Judge—An', prisoner, you hev spoken disrespectfully of this here court. Put down fifty dollars more fer that, Mr. Clerk.—Puck.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Irate Individual—What did you mean by telling Smith that I had been in jail?

Calm Individual—I did not tell Smith you had been in jail. I simply said you ought to be in jail.
